WAS AFRAID TO EAT, DREADING AFTER EFFECTS

Mrs. Baptiste Felt Like She Would Smother and Nerves Were All To Pieces—Tanlac Ends Trouble.

"I don't know what I would have done had it not been for Tanlac," said Mrs. Catherine Baptiste, 74 Sterling St., Boston, Mass.

"Just before I got Tanlac everything I ate soured and gave me such a stuffed up feeling I thought I would suffocate. I actually ate my meals under dread and fear of the after effects. I couldn't sleep well, either, and got so nervous I could hardly do my work.

"Finally I tried Tanlac and almost at once there was a great change in my condition. The stomach trouble soon disappeared, my nerves are steady, I sleep well, and do my work with ease. I am always praising Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

HOW THE HORSES HELPED TO WIN THE WAR

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 26—The World War could not have been won "without the aid of our animal allies," Prof. E. H. Baynes of the American Museum of Natural History, declared in an address here on animal heroism.

Prof. Baynes said 16,000,000 horses took part in the war, notwithstanding the wide use of motor lorries, oxen were used by soldiers in the Alps and German East Africa, donkeys worked in Palestine and France, and that in the Orient camels were pressed into service, with dogs doing their bit for all countries especially in Belgium, where they hauled machine guns.

"Never in the history of mankind," he continued, "have animals played so great a part in the protection of civilization. Even the work of the mares, keeping up morale and cheerfulness with a large number of troops in the field, was important."

Canaries were used by the Germans to detect the presence of poison gas, and homing pigeons valiantly carried messages through shellfire, sometimes giving up their lives to deliver the messages, he declared.

Prof. Baynes has founded more than 200 animal clubs in all parts of the United States.

THE MAJESTIC'S LARGE OUTFITTING

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 26—The outfitting of the liner Majestic, 56,000 tons which made her maiden trip to New York this month was a colossal affair and quite on a par with her size, which is the largest in the world. Seventeen tons of blankets, 16 miles of sheets, 10 1/2 miles of bed covers were being utilized for the sleeping apartments.

For the dining rooms there were 19 miles of table cloths and 20,000 pieces of glassware, China and earthenware totalled 80,000 pieces.

The electro-plate and cutlery consisted of 50,000 pieces, with an extra 5,500 pieces for the French restaurant.

The crew of the ship will wear something like five and one-half miles of apron during a passage.
